

Premier Balanced Portfolio

Premier Private Client Portfolio

Quarterly Update - April 2011

The Premier Balanced portfolio offers exposure to UK and overseas equity markets. These traditionally offer the potential for attractive returns over the medium to long-term but are, by their nature, a more volatile investment.

Due to their enhanced return structures, protected structured products are used widely in these portfolios, offering investors good exposure to positive equity returns and a protected downside. The Premier Balanced Portfolio may also contain exposure to commodities and commercial property.

Portfolio Manager Commentary

Performance of the Portfolio over the quarter has been satisfactory relative to markets. The process of incorporating the new Premier funds into the portfolios, where and when relevant, is progressing well. These funds have been positioned to take advantage of a variety of new structured product issues and, where appropriate, various stocks with an 'auto call' structure have been bought. These new 'auto call' structured products which have been introduced into the portfolio via the Premier funds have the potential to deliver returns between 10.5% and 15% per year, without the requirement for an increase in the underlying indices.

The asset allocation and the current mix of individual assets within the balanced strategy are well positioned to benefit from our positive view on equity markets over the medium to long term. We have therefore made no changes to the strategy over the quarter as we are comfortable with the existing make up and asset allocation.

Important Information

Investments for discretionary managed portfolios may include investment trusts which use gearing as an investment strategy. This means that movements in the price of the shares may be more volatile than the movements in the price of the underlying investments. Sudden and large falls in value may occur and investors may get back nothing at all if there is a sufficiently large fall in the value of the investment. The fund may invest in "capital at risk product" investments where you could lose some or all of the money you invest. The rate of return advertised for these products might be achieved only after a set period and upon specific conditions being met. Investments may also include hedge fund and commodity based funds which may be less liquid, more volatile and not readily realisable. A significant proportion of this portfolio is currently invested in structured products. The common feature of these products is that they are designed to combine the potential upside of market performance with limited downside. Structured products are typically linked to the performance of one or more underlying instruments or assets such as market prices, indices, securities, commodities and other financial instruments. There is the potential that these products could introduce a significant level of risk which may affect the portfolio's performance. However, the portfolio manager will use structured products to help keep the portfolio's volatility levels relatively low and provide an appropriate risk/reward balance.

Past performance is not a guide to future returns. The price of shares and income from them can go down as well as up. You may get back less than you invest. Exchange rates will also cause the value of underlying investments to fall or rise. Tax concessions are not guaranteed and may be changed at any time; their value will depend on your individual circumstances. For your protection when dealing, your call may be recorded and monitored. Details of the nature of the investments, the commitment required and specific risk warnings are described in the Discretionary Agreement document which is available on request.
